SAVINGS DEPARTMENT.

THIS BANK HAS ESTABLISHED IN CONNECTION with the general Banking business a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT, and will allow interest on Coin Deposits made in accordance with the conditions adopted by the Association.

In establishing a SAVINGS DEPARTMENT this Banking Association has in view the benefits to accrue to a class of persons having small sums to loan, by providing a safe place of deposit, ample security and fair rate of interest, as well as to aggregate and bring into use idle capital.

For the safety of deposits in this Bank are pledged the entire capital and resources, and also the personal liability of its Directors and Stockholders, as provided by Section 12 of the National Currency Act, approved June 3, 1864, a greater security than that given by ordinary Savings Banks. Printed copies of the conditions upon which deposits are received may be had upon application at the Bank.

OREGON.

Grand Master T McF Patton is on a visiting tour up the valley.

J. W. Virtue, of Baker City, was reported as having been quite ill for ten days prior to the 7th instant.

A grand entertainment in aid of the poor will be given by the Salem Relief Club on next Monday evening.

The low lands opposite Salem are overflowed, and, in consequence, the ferryboat has to land far up the river.

The United Brethren have been holding a protracted meeting at Sheridan, but with what results is not announced.

Five hundred head of cattle were driven to the Willown valley last week. Stock is doing well in the upper Willowa without feed.

The crossing at the North Fork bridge, on the Yamhill, is said to be dangerous for those who are unacquainted with the road.

No trouble from Indians in Wallowa valley as yet—and by men well qualified to judge of the situation, none is apprehended.

"Ten Nights in a Bar room" will soon be brought out with some star actors and splendid scenery at the Baker City Athenæum.

Hay is for sale on Catherine creek, Eastern Oregon, at $6 per ton. So says a local paper, which don't look like cattle were starving.

At Salem, on Wednesday at 11 A. M., the river was 22 feet above low water mark. Two hours and a half afterwards it was 4½ inches higher.

Bros. Adams and Chancey, the revivalists, report twenty-seven additions to the church as the result of their labors for the past two weeks at Cove, Union county.

Citizens of Oregon were not allowed to accompany Steele, Fairchild and others who went into the lava beds to hold a conference with Captain Jack two weeks ago.

Our correspondent at Baker City under date of the 7th inst. writes that the Chinook wind reached that place on the 5th and the people were rejoicing [illegible] which was the long wintry spell was broken. The streets were almost bare of snow, and also rapidly disappearing from the valley.

At a charter election held at La Grande on the 3d, the following officers were chosen without opposition: For President of the Council, J. L. Curtis; Recorder, D. S. Kinsey; Marshal, J. P. Clark; Treasurer, J. A. McWhirter; Councilmen, L. Barr, E. S. McComas, J. Hopper.

A Professor at Salem has been trying to enlighten the people of that place in "Numerical Science," by aid of a chart of his own invention, but the Statesman reporter can't see how it is to help the Peace Commissioners to settle the Modoc question or any other man to stave off his brood bill.

From the Sentinel: "Hutchinson of Cove, Union county, amused himself the other day by trying to reconstruct Gardiner with the butt end of a six-shooter, damaging the latter's skull exceedingly. A warrant has been issued for his arrest. Cause of the trouble—a few rails claimed by each.

The La Grande Sentinel says: "A gentleman appeared in the town of Union the other day and wished to buy several hundred head of cattle, offering to take two hundred calves a year old as part of the purchase and allow $10 a head all around, so we were informed, but found no person wishing to sell.

The voters of the Hillsboro School District will decide at the election in next month the question of erecting a large school house or academy in that place. "This," says our correspondent, "is a step in the right direction, as good school and church privileges form attractive features and draw toward the neighborhood that supports them the better classes of men and women as permanent and useful settlers."

The Salem Statesman's Modoc correspondent, under date of February 28th, says: "Hooker Jim, the leader of the band who murdered the settlers; the individual who shot Henry Miller, Soper and Mrs. Body's little boy, paid the Commissioners and General Canby a flying visit, coming night before last, in company with two others. Bidding us good bye, he mounted one of Mrs. Brotherton's team horses, shod all round, and rode away. All three were well armed."

The people of Eastern Oregon are making the complaint about the irregularity of the mails which has been so often heard of late, a correspondent at Baker City says the principal query there, is, "what becomes of the numerous newspapers known to be mailed to parties here from their friends at the East." Another question is, "Did any person living on this overland route ever see a real live postal agent or what does the Department at Washington know of postoffices in our country."

In 1860, Philip Peters, of Douglas county, paid to the School Superintendent of that county $205 for a piece of land, supposed then to be school land. Subsequently, however, the tract was discovered to be not school land; and it was long since sold by the United States Government. Meantime for twelve years, Douglas has had that $205 and Mr. Peters hasn't. The matter was brought before the State Board of School Land Commissioners Tuesday, and they ordered the money returned.

The Statesman of Thursday says: "Superintendent Odeneal received a telegram yesterday from Secretary Delano, informing him that he had been appointed on the Modoc Peace Commission, and giving some brief instructions in the matter of placing the Indians upon a new reservation. This appointment and telegram seem to have been based upon the supposition that peace had already been secured, and that only the question of the disposition to be made of the Indians remained to be settled. We think it probable that such information had been sent him. The news from Yreka, however, of the failure of the Modocs to meet and surrender to the Commissioners as they had agreed, puts altogether a new face upon the whole matter, and it is most probable the Commission will be dismissed."

The Statesman says: "Some time since Mr. Sinnott, Indian Agent at Grand Ronde, received a communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, informing him that the Department desired to make a collection of all the varieties of ancient and modern implements used by the Indians for drinking or smoking purposes. In response to that communication, Mr. C. D. Reiger was in this city yesterday with a collection of wooden, horn, stone and woven vessels of venerable dates, obtained from the Indians of the Grand Ronde Reservation, and was preparing them with explanatory labels to be sent to Washington. Among other things was a huge spoon made something like a hundred years ago, according to family traditions, of the horn of a mountain sheep or goat. Another was a black stone pipe, said to be 75 years old. We presume this will be presented to the next Peace Commission. Another article which we presume will puzzle the Commissioner is a wicker basin, used for drinking purposes, woven of the fibre or bark of roots. At present it is easier to be seen through than a mill-stone; but it is said that when saturated with water it becomes water tight. We have no doubt that the study of these articles will greatly assist the Commissioner in arriving at precisely the best, quickest and cheapest way of Christianizing the Indians, and making them both useful and ornamental members of society, especially if he should be told that instead of using these rude cups and spoons, they now drink exclusively from silver goblets."

THE TERRITORIES.

A Walla Walla hen lays a dollar's worth of eggs every day.

Fruit trees are reported injured by the cold weather in Walla Walla and Touchet valley.

Cattle are offered cheap at Walla Walla according to the Union. Cows sell at $20@25 per head.

A Hard Times ball was given at Walla Walla recently. Tickets were written on coarse brown paper, and the guests wore their poorest clothes.

The high constable at Dayton, W. T., has gone to Colfax for the purpose of escorting back a nice young man, who put on a friend's best clothes—by mistake.

Fifteen hundred head of hogs were butchered last winter between Waitsburg and Dayton, W. T. The hog crop all over the valley is greatly in excess of any previous year.

The new woolen mill at Dayton, W. T., is progressing finely, and with its completion and successful operation it is expected that the town will rapidly advance in wealth and population.

Idaho had a meteor a few nights ago, that had a tail resembling a silvery mist. It was undoubtedly a Congressional meteor, and an investigating committee should overhaul its silvery tail.

The Walla Walla Union says: "The Company is about to commence work on the railway between this place and Wallula. A beginning has already been made. As soon as the weather settles, we learn, they expect to push things along as rapidly as possible."

According to the census taken by the County Assessor, the population of Waitsburg, W. T., foots up 200 all told. At the last meeting of the Waitsburg Lyceum the minutes of the previous meeting read thus: "The speakers on each side were worthy a better cause, and some of them surprised their best friends."

The Walla Walla Union of the 8th inst. says: "From all parts of the country we hear reports of very deep snows in the mountains. There seems to have been an unusual snow-fall during the winter, and it has not been melting much, nearly all that has fallen still remains. The weather still remains so cold that it has not yet commenced melting. It now seems probable that when it does commence we shall have unusually high water. The Columbia river is now at an unprecedented low stage for this season of the year, showing that in the mountains, whence it has its source, the snows have not yet commenced to melt. Some of the river country will get plenty of river irrigation in the spring, and the prospect for mining operations look favorable."

GENERAL NOTES

A Michigan goose has forwarded a twenty pound turkey to Queen Victoria.

The franking privilege cost the Government $732 per year for each member of the House.

Iowa adds to the Postoffice list a new village with the romantic name of "Fat Woman's Bond."

A Western Methodist minister has withdrawn from his church on account of "domestic jangles."

A son-in-law of Isabella of Spain was recently fined for neglecting a summons to do jury duty in Rome.

The rivers in the northern part of Maine are frozen solid down to the bottom, and the people are blasting for fish.

Mrs. Partington is still living, but can't see to knit, and has the "new-ralgy" so she gets off very few gags for the papers.

The message of Governor Geary of Pennsylvania states that the State debt has been reduced during the year nearly $2,500,000.

The new President of Mexico chews cheap plug tobacco, smokes a clay pipe, and turns his paper collar after wearing it two weeks.

Henry Ward Beecher says, "let a boy snicker during prayer if he wants to," but see that he is thoroughly warned at its conclusion.

A Charlestonian's sixtieth birthday has been made joyous by a surprise party, participated in by twenty-seven couples of his friends, all dressed like children.

The Ladies' Home for Newsboys in Philadelphia is reported to be closed on account of the dissatisfaction of the young gentlemen with the bill of fare provided for them.

Twenty-five years ago there was only one Whig in the State of Michigan, all the rest being Democrats. To-day there is only one Democrat. But then there are no Whigs.

The firemen in Minnesota contemplate forming a State organization, and they ask the State to set aside for their benefit the revenue from the tax on insurance companies.

A Coroner's jury in Pennsylvania has brought in a verdict that death was caused by softening of the brain, in consequence of the accidental falling of a brick upon the man's head.

John Rogers is modelling a statuette entitled, "The Favored Scholar." We have not yet seen the design, but presume it represents a schoolmaster kissing a big girl behind the blackboard.

A Trojan canine recently swallowed $25 worth of national currency belonging to his master, who wants to know if there is any use in sending the animal to the Treasury Department for redemption.

Barnum has more pluck than money, but as long as he can get time on a few elephants and lions, and the gorilla is willing to wait until the end of the month for his salary, the great showman is all right.

An ingenious Yankee has invented a ballot-box that cannot be stuffed. It has an indicator in front which records every vote cast, and keeps an exact record of the total, up to the time of closing the polls.

Garret Dorland, of Elkador, Iowa, was compelled to enact the role of Mazeppa by some drunken companions, one night, and died from the effect of his barebback ride, combined with huge doses of poor whisky.

The people of Concord, N. H., give an annual concert and levee for the benefit of Lewis F. Miller, a little crippled newsboy, who is trying to work his way through Dartmouth College, and is now in his sophomore year.

Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson, who was married to Jerome Bonaparte, the youngest brother of Napoleon Bonaparte, on the 24th of December, 1803, sixty-nine years ago, is now lying at the point of death in Baltimore. She is now about eighty-eight years old.

A man in Terre Haute, Indiana, has a little private armory of his own, consisting of one musket, carried by his grandfather in the Revolutionary war; another, carried by his father in the war of 1812, and a third, carried by himself in the war of the rebellion.

The Crispins are on a strike in five shoe factories in Baltimore, and the women and girls at work in the other shops are called upon to give twenty-five per cent. of their earnings to aid in their support. Many, earning $10 or less a week, express great dissatisfaction at this demand.

Hassan Pacha, the son of the Khedive of Egypt, is coming to this country, and has already written a beautiful letter to President Grant, asking the latter if he, the writer, will be compelled to wear pants at public receptions. It is rumored that the President's official reply was, "It is optional as regards the pants, but spurs are necessary."

EASTERN DATES TO MARCH 13.

WASHINGTON CITY.

New Zealand Mails.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The direct line of mail steamers plying between San Francisco and Sydney, via Auckland, New Zealand, having been withdrawn from that route, letters from New Zealand and Australian Colonies cannot now be forwarded via San Francisco, therefore, all correspondence to those colonies must be prepaid for transmission by British lines via England.

New Treasurer, &c.

The Postoffice Department to-day issued an order for increasing the mail service from Reno, Nevada, to Summerville, California, from tri-weekly to daily service, and from Reddling to Lake City, to twice a week.

Judge Richardson will to-morrow assume charge of the Treasury Department, as acting Secretary. Boutwell this afternoon made his last official signature. The latter, however, has not written his letter of resignation, and will not until his credentials arrive which are expected to-morrow night.

Senator Sumner Congratulated.

Senator Sumner called on Boutwell this afternoon and congratulated him in these words: "I congratulate my country. I congratulate my State and I congratulate myself, in having you for a colleague."

Nominations and Confirmations.

The President has nominated O. N. Denny, of Oregon, as Consul to Amoy. The Senate has confirmed the nominations of T. B. Hickey, Postmaster at Salem, and S. H. Wright as Receiver of Public Moneys in Gila Land District.

The Caldwell Bribery Case.

CHICAGO, March 13.—A Times special says that as the Caldwell debate progresses it becomes more and more apparent that Morton and a majority of the Committee on Privileges and Elections made a mistake in reporting the resolution declaring Caldwell's election illegal, instead of recommending expulsion. If indeed they were not victims of a trick practiced by some of the minority of the Committee, and which is ill becoming a Senator. Many Senators who believe Caldwell guilty, and who would vote to expel him, do not believe that the Senate has the right to go behind the certificate of election and examine the motive that influenced members of the Legislature in voting for him. It is thought a substitute for the Committee's resolution, which provides simply for the expulsion of Caldwell, will be adopted.

Bureau of Indian Affairs.

A Washington special says of E. Payson Smith, who was yesterday appointed by the President as Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that he was, before the war, a Congressional preacher in the West. During the rebellion he was a field agent of the Christian Commission. He is now Agent of the Chippewa Indians in Minnesota. He was nominated by the Peace Commission, and is said by his friends to be an honest and capable man.

Specials all say there is no longer any doubt as to Richardson's appointment as Secretary of the Treasury.

President Grant Interviewed.

NEW YORK, March 13.—In an interview with a Herald reporter at Washington, yes erday, President Grant said that no changes are to take place in the Cabinet beyond that which Boutwell's resignation will occasion. The financial policy of the Government will not be changed. He hopes to see the Republic of Spain well established, [illegible] that be the end of this year the independence of Cuba will be secured. No trouble is expected with Hayti, and the President thinks that the Samana Bay cession will result in the development of that country, so that our Government will ultimately receive back something like ten or fifteen million dollars. The people of Utah, he says, will obey the laws. He is satisfied with his Louisiana policy. The Indian policy succeeds so well, that he has the greatest faith in it. A visit to St. Louis is projected.

Miscellaneous.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—In the Senate, the Caldwell case was resumed. Alcorn offered a resolution, which lay over under the rule, that Caldwell be expelled. Logan resented his reports from yesterday.

The President has gone to Philadelphia.

Various Republican State associations have completed arrangements for a grand national Union ball, to be given in the inauguration ball building on the 25th of March.

Ketchama, a Japanese law student in Washington, has been elected to descend order by the Baltimore Methodist Conference, and admitted to full connection. He will soon return to Japan

EASTERN STATES.

One Contract too Much.

CINCINNATI, March 12.—The firm of G. W. Morton & Co., has been declared bankrupt. They contracted in the year 1870 to excavate a railroad tunnel under Walnut Hill.

Railroad Directors.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Northern Pacific Railroad to-day, the following directors were elected: W. G. Fargo, G. W. Cass, R. D. Rice, O. H. Wright, W. B. Ogden, Frederick Billings, J. G. Smith, W. G. Moorehead, A. G. Barney, Wm. Windon, Jas. Stinson, D. D. Cheney and A. Cullin.

A Scandalous Rumor Denied.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The following dispatch has been received to-day by a prominent citizen: "Providence, R. I.—Will you allow me to correct a statement published yesterday, wherein it was said I had received money for writing a letter to the Governor of New York asking for commutation of Foster's sentence? The statement is wholly false. I have never received money, nor have I been offered a bribe in any form. The letter was my own and expressed my honest feelings. Signed, E. S. Peirce."

Grand Master T McFarlane is on a visiting tour up the valley

J W Virtue, of Baker City, was reported as having been quite ill for ten days prior to the 7th instant

A grand celebration in aid of the poor will be given by the Salem Relief Club on next Monday evening

The low lands opposite Salem are overflowed, and in consequence, the ferryboat has to land far up the river

The United Brethren have been holding a protracted meeting at Sheridan but with what results is not announced

Five hundred head of cattle were driven to the Wallowa valley last week Stock is doing well in the upper Wallowa without food.

The crossing at the North Fork bridge, on the Umbrill, is said to be dangerous for those who are unacquainted with the road

No trouble from Indians in Wallowa valley as yet—and by men well qualified to judge of the situation, none is apprehended

"Ten Nights in a Bar room" will soon be brought out with some star actors and splendid scenery at the Baker City Athenæum

Hay is for sale on Catherine creek, Eastern Oregon, at $6 per ton So says a local paper, which don't look like cattle were starving

At Salem, on Wednesday at 11 A M, the river was 23 feet above low water mark Two hours and a half afterwards it was 43 inches higher

Citizens of Oregon were not allowed to accompany Steele, Fairchild and others who went into the lava beds to hold a conference with Captain Jack two weeks ago

Our correspondent at Baker City under date of the 7th inst. writes that the Chinook wind reached that place on the 5th and the people were rejoicing at the long wintry spell was broken The streets were almost bare of snow which was also rapidly disappearing from the valley.

At a charter election held at La Grande on the 3d, the following officers were chosen without opposition For President of the Council, J L Curtis, Recorder, D S Kaseey, Marshal, J P Clark, Treasurer, J A McWhirter, Councilmen, L Burt, D S McComas, J Hopper.

A Professor at Salem has been trying to enlighten the people of that place in "Numerical Science," by aid of a chart of his own invention, but the Statesman reporter can't see how it is to help the Peace Commissioners to settle the Modoc question or any other man to stave off his broad bill

From the Sentinel "Hutchinson of Cove, Union county, amused himself the other day by trying to reconstruct Gardiner with the butt end of a six-shooter, damaging the latter's skull exceedingly. A warrant has been issued for his arrest. Cause of the trouble—a few reals claimed by each

The La Grande Sentinel says "A gentleman appeared in the town of Union the other day and wished to buy several hundred head of cattle, offering to take two hundred calves a year old as part of the purchase and allow $15 a head all around, so we were informed, but found no person wishing to sell

The voters of the Hillsboro School District will decide at the election in next month the question of erecting a large school house or academy in that place "This," says our correspondent, "is a step in the right direction, as good school and church privileges form attractive features and draw toward the neighborhood that supports them the better classes of men and women as permanent and useful settlers"

The Salem Statesman's Modoc correspondent, under date of February 28th, says "Hooker Jim, the leader of the band who murdered the settlers, the individual who shot Henry Miller, Soper and Mrs Body's little boy, paid the Commissioners and General Canby a flying visit, coming night before last, in company with two others Bidding us good bye, he mounted one of Mrs Brotherton's team horses, shod all round, and rode away All three were well armed"

The people of Eastern Oregon are making the complaint about the irregularity of the mails which has been so often heard of late, a correspondent at Baker City says the principal quarry there, is, what becomes of the numerous newspapers known to be mailed to parties here from their friends at the East" Another question is, "Did any person living on this overland route ever see a real live postal agent or what does the Department at Washington know of postoffices in our country"

In 1860, Philip Peters, of Douglas county, paid to the School Superintendent of that county $205 for a piece of land, supposed then to be school land Subsequently, however, the tract was discovered to be not school land, and it was long since sold by the United States Government Meantime for twelve years, Douglas has had that $205 and Mr Peters hasn't The matter was brought before the State Board of School Land Commissioners Tuesday, and they ordered the money returned

The Statesman of Thursday says "Superintendent Odeneal received a telegram yesterday from Secretary Delano, informing him that he had been appointed on the Modoc Peace Commission, and giving some brief instructions in the matter of pleasing the Indians upon a new reservation This appointment and telegram seem to have been based upon the supposition that peace had already been secured, and that only the question of the disposition to be made of the Indians remained to be settled We think it probable that such information had been sent him The news from Yreka, however, of the failure of the Modocs to meet and surrender to the Commissioners as they had agreed, puts altogether a new face upon the whole matter, and it is most probable the Commission will be dismissed"

The Statesman says "Some time since Mr Sinnott, Indian Agent at Grand Ronde, received a communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, informing him that the Department desired to make a collection of all the varieties of ancient and modern implements used by the Indians for drinking or smoking purposes In response to that communication, Mr C D Folger was in this city yesterday with a collection of wooden, horn, stone and woven vessels of no mean order, obtained from the Indians of the Grand Ronde Reservation and was preparing them with explanatory labels to be sent to Washington Among other things was a huge spoon made something like a hundred years ago, according to family traditions, of the horn of a mountain sheep or goat Another was a black stone pipe, said to be 75 years old We presume this will be presented to the next Peace Commission Another article which we presume will puzzle the Commissioner is a wicker basin, used for drinking purposes, woven of the fibre or bark of roots At present it is easier to be seen through than a mill-stone, but it is said that when saturated with water it becomes water tight We have no doubt that the study of these articles will greatly assist the Commissioner in arriving at precisely the best, quickest and cheapest way of Christianizing the Indians, and making them both useful and ornamental members of society, especially if he should be told that instead of using those rude cups and spoons, they now drink exclusively from silver goblets."

The Caldwell Bribery Case.

CHICAGO, March 13 —A Times special says that as the Caldwell debate progresses it becomes more and more apparent that Morton and a majority of the Committee on Privileges and Elections made a mistake in reporting the resolution declaring Caldwell's election illegal, instead of recommending expulsion, if indeed they were not victims of a trick practiced by some of the minority of the Committee, and which fell becoming a Senator. Many Senators who believe Caldwell guilty, and who would vote to expel him do not believe that the Senate has the right to go behind his certificate of election and examine the motive that influenced members of the Legislature in voting, for him It is thought a substitute for the Committee's resolution which provides simply for the expulsion of Caldwell, will be adopted.

FRIDAY MORNING MARCH 14, 1873

The Port Orford Breakwater

We are in receipt of a copy of the Report of Major H M Robert, upon the proposed construction of a harbor refuge at Port Orford The document is short, but full of information in regard to the various matters to be considered in connection with the proposed work He reports that the breakwater will probably be required eventually to be 1 000 yards in length and that such a work would inclose an area of two hundred and twenty acres varying in depth at low water from three to ten fathoms The entrance at the eastern end of the breakwater would be 900 yards wide, measuring to the five fathom curve, and 600 yards measuring to the three fathom This would be ample for the accommodation of vessels in a gale

It is considered, however that for some time to come, there would be no necessity for making the breakwater more than 500 yards in length, this length being sufficient to give protection to an area of forty acres of good water The plan of the work and the mode of letting the contract suggested by Major Robert, are

The rubble mass unlow 25 feet below low water mark would be composed of quarry rubbish and small stones, with an interior coating (all the coatings measured horizontally of 15 feet and an exterior coating of 30 feet, of stones weighing over 500 pounds each From 25 to 15 feet below low water the hearting would consist of stones heavier than 500 pounds, with an interior covering 15 feet thick of stones over 1,000 pounds, and an exterior covering 40 feet thick of stones from 2 to 6 tons, averaging about 4 tons, this same size of stones being used above the depth of 15 feet, with a covering on the exterior side 40 feet thick of artificial blocks of concrete or rubble masonry weighing about 25 tons each, and extending to low water line

If the breakwater were over extended beyond the 500 yards it would be much more exposed, and these blocks might have to be increased in size, after reaching 700 or 800 yards from the starting point

The interior slope of this mound would be 1 upon 1 The exterior slope up to 25 feet below low water would be 1½ base to 1 vertical Above that level it would be 2½ base to 1 vertical.

(2) At 5 feet below low water would be laid a foundation of concrete 5 feet thick, and upon this built a wall 42 feet thick at low water level, and 33 feet at the top, which would be at 18 f et above low water, or 7 feet above high water, giving each face a batter of 3 inches to the foot There would be a parapet 8 feet thick and 7 feet high on the top of the wall, thus raising its sea face to 14 feet above high water or 25 feet above low water The faces of the wall would be of dressed masonry well bonded, and the filling of rubble masonry

(3) The United States should purchase the headland so as to own the quarries and a site for fortifications, and avoid possible complications and delays in the prosecution of the work This will not interfere with the formation of a town at the place There is not at present a single build log, or any improvement on the part spoken by the United States

(4) The United States, having purchased the land, should construct five parallel lines of narrow gauge railroad track along the first 300 yards of the proposed breakwater, and a double track from the breakwater along the shore, with side tracks for each quarry The probable amount of single railroad track required would be 2½ miles, with an addition of 3 5 mile more to complete the 500 yards of breakwater The superstructure for the railroad would be placed upon piles, and so that its lowest timber would be 12 feet above high water

(5) The United States should furnish all the equipments for the railroad, including at least two locomotives, fifty dumping cars, (four wheels,) and such tools as are necessary for repairing the engines, also two steam cranes, and water tanks, and provide for a supply of water

(6) After these preparations, the entire work to be done with each appropriation should be let to one contractor, so that one man would control the work, and thus have every facility for selecting stone for each class of work

By the United States making all these preliminary arrangements, which take time and cost a great deal, there will be much more competition among contractors, and there will be much more saved during the progress of the work than the cost of the preliminary work In the end the Government has to pay for it, and it had better do so at the beginning All ordinary wear and tear the Government should bear, but the contractor should be required to bear all other expenses The exact cost of this preliminary work it is difficult to state, but I think $250,000 will possibly cover it, of which over $50,000, however, would be charged to the item of rubble, which would have to be deposited to protect the piles in the line of the breakwater, and would form part of the breakwater This $50 000 is sufficient to cover all of the after-expense of prolonging the railroads.

The estimated cost of a breakwater 500 yards long, is stated at $2,002,000 including the preliminary expenses of purchasing land, building railways for use in construction, etc, and allowing 20 per cent over actual estimated cost for contingencies

Mr James Brooks, M C, is a much-abused man He says so, at any rate His address to his constituents, lately written, sets forth that his enemies took advantage of his physical prostration to offer Oakes Ames and himself as sacrifices to public clamor. Furthermore, in the ruinous scandal to which Mr B fell a victim, there were involved two Vice Presidents, several Senators and eight other members of the House, all of whom were more guilty than he, by far He alleges that this sacrifice of a Democrat was indispensable The hostility of Mr. Brooks is especially directed against Banks, Morrick, Poland and Niblack As Mr Brooks proposes to appeal to his constituents in person, we forbear further comment.

Mr Stanley finds that all is not sweet in the life of the sensational lecturer A short time since he accused his agent, Dortland, of of absconding with $800, the proceeds of a lecture delivered by the explorer Now this ungrateful Dortland retorts that he never was an agent of Stanley, but that Stanley was employed by him to lecture—terms, $150 per night and expenses paid Mr D further asseverates that he became disgusted with Stanley, gave up the contract and retired to the privacy of his domestic circle and the bosom of his family And now the N Y Herald is going to send some self made man through the country to hunt Stanley up, and explore the sources of——his revenue

What are Swamp Lands.

The following letter, addressed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office to the Surveyor General of California, establishes certain important principles in regard to swamp land grants under the Act of July 23 1866 The questions decided arose in reviewing the action of the Surveyor General of California on a large tract of alleged swampy land known as Big Meadows, and situated in a valley among the Sierra Nevadas We copy from the San Francisco Bulletin

Commissioner Drummond says "In your report you refer to the attitude of the lands under consideration As the same point was made by the attorney, and considered by you as a reason for rejecting the claim of the State in the Sierra valley case, and also in that of the Mountain Meadows, I again allude to the subject for the purpose of saying that it makes no difference how high or elevated the lands may be, if they are in fact swampy or overflowing from surrounding lands still higher, while very low lands may be perfectly drained so as to be susceptible of cultivation Marshes and lakes are found in the most elevated regions, and dry lands in low valleys, therefore each case must be decided upon the facts

"The question to be determined is not one of altitude or of quality If elevated lands are found swampy or overflowed, and thereby rendered unfit for cultivation, they must be awarded to the state under the grant, and if low lands are found dry, the claim of the State must be rejected Another point urged by the attorneys and considered by you as a cause for rejecting the claim of the State, is that the lands produce wild grass which is valuable for pasturage and hay. Natural productiveness has no bearing upon the question, except as evidence tending to show the character of the lands, and the fact that lands produce wild grass fit for pasturage or hay is not evidence for or against their swampy character, unless we take into consideration the kind of grass produced Some kinds of grass grow on dry lands only others grow on swampy lands only The question to be considered in this connection is not whether lands in their natural state produce something of value, but whether they are so swampy or overflowed as to be rendered thereby unfit for cultivation If they are, they go to the State under the grant, no odds how valuable their natural products may be, but if they are in fact dry, they do not inure to the State, although they may be unproductive and worthless

"A tract of land may be very valuable for its timber, its wild grasses, or cranberries, and yet be clearly and unquestionably swampy or overflowed and unfit for cultivation until drained or reclaimed A cranberry marsh may, in a natural state, enrich its owner, and yet be so swampy as to render it impossible to cultivate it On the other hand, a tract of land perfectly dry may be unproductive and utterly worthless therefore, I think it is clear that while the natural state or condition of land is to be considered as determining the right of the State, the kind, quality or nature of natural productions are not matters for consideration, except so far as this may be evidence of the character of the land

Another point urged in these cases against the claim of the State is, if lands should be drained, irrigation would become necessary to the production of crops This is a virtual admission of the fact, that the lands are swampy, and I cannot see how irrigation or anything else necessary to cultivation, after reclamation, can affect the right of the State to them under the grant, if they are swampy or overflowed in a natural state The attorney opposed to the State asserts that irrigation is part of cultivation He is undoubtedly correct Therefore it would be just as unreasonable to decide that lands are not swampy because it will become necessary to plow them after drained to make them productive as it would to decide they are swamp lands because irrigation will become necessary for the same purpose

"The testimony fails to show that other crops than grass could be produced if the land was reclaimed On the contrary it is in evidence in all the cases investigated in regard to similar lands, such as the Sierra Valley and Mountain Meadows, as well as the land now under consideration, that good crops of potatoes oats beans peas, barley and even wheat can be grown successfully, and had been grown on such lands as were free from water early in the season"

The Washington Chronicle is elated with glowing hopes for the future of Japan It says.

As an evidence of the progress of the Japanese in the ways and customs of the Western nations, we may state that Mr John Philip, (Kodama,) the young Japanese, who for some years has been studying law in the office of Judge Fisher, United States attorney for the District, and who proposes to return shortly to his native country, will carry with him a handsomely finished model of the scaffold recently used in this city in the execution of George W Jenkins for the murder of his wife, Charles Johnson for the murder of his wife in Georgetown, and Barney Woods for the murder of Cheeseman The model is of black walnut, and complete in every part—ropes, springs and hinges, and on a scale of one inch to the foot and was made for Mr Kodama by Mr John H. Russell

Letter from Oregon City

OREGON CITY, March 12th 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

After three weeks of continued gloom and almost incessant rain dame nature has been pleased to day to put on a bright smiling aspect and we are blessed with the light and the restoring and invigorating influence of the bright beams of the god of day And it is cheering and pleasant to our eyes to notice that the ladies, God bless them with smiling faces and neat attire as if with the intention of publicly acknowledging their appreciation of the grateful change came forth like poetic butterflies from the obscurity so long imposed upon them to enjoy the beautiful sunlight After such a cloudy experience who cannot say from the heart 'truly the light is sweet and it is a pleasant thing for the eyes to behold the light of the sun Let us hope that the 'winter of our discontent' is now passed and that as in nature all things are now springing into new life so with the opening of spring our trade and commerce now so generally complained of in our fair young State may speedily revive, and in so doing re animate the disheartened among us Already is the difference in the weather very perceptible in our town carpenters stonemasons and laborers who for days have sat gloomily smoking their pipes by the fire indoors, are hastily pushing the plane and handling the saw, the trowel, and the shovel upon the re construction of the woolen factory and if report says true numerous other extensive works are soon to be commenced It is not true that any portion of the old P T Co's boats (other than the drydock which gave way during the former freshet) has succumbed to the force of the immense body of water which now comes foaming and tearing down between its sun bankments, although the river is much higher and consequently the pressure still greater than when a portion of the dry dock fell We have it from reliable authority however, that the company intend to rebuild the lower ordi this spring or summer in such a substantial manner that no danger shall hereafter be apprehended of its strength and solidity to stand any raise the river may be subject to C W Pope & Co also intend to erect a substantial brick building on the site of their present store which will soon be removed to a lot which they have recently purchased on Main street opposite to where it now stands

The water in the canal from its entrance to the gate of the grand look is overflowing the top of the crib work in an immense body, rendering the transit of any steamer almost if not entirely impossible at the present stage of water The view of the falls of the Wallamet embracing as it does the overflow of water the whole length of the crib work of the canal must be seen to be appreciated, and if our friend Bachtel of your city, of photographic fame, would come up and do the scene, the picture, I venture to say, would find many purchasers H

A Personal Explanation

HUBBARD, Marion Co, March 5, 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In the Salem correspondence of the daily Bulletin, of February 24th, I see my name mentioned in a manner that I think deserves a little notice from me The said correspondent, Mr "T Spoon," (which I believe is the smallest of the spoon family,) says that I made an attack on the reputation of Capt L S Scott Now, what I said on that occasion was [illegible] the midst of an exciting time, and I do not now remember exactly what it was, and I now write this letter more for the purpose of setting this thing right, if it is wrong, than to pay any attention to little "Spoon" As to Captain Scott, I regard him as a gentleman, and well qualified to perform the duties of Sheriff of Marion county But in regard to the propriety of temperance men voting only for temperance men the question that we were discussing in the State Temperance Alliance, I believe this The liquor traffic is the cause of all the drunkenness and all the attendant evils of drunkenness, misery, crime, etc, and to remove the effect we must remove the cause Institutions that are so pernicious and ruinous to the best interests of society, as liquor drinking and gambling saloons are, are surely wrong If anything is wrong, and should be discouraged and discountenanced by all good citizens And I believe that the office of Sheriff, and all other offices of trust or profit should be held by men who hold forth and practice temperance principles and set a better example before the rising generation than men do who are customers of saloons However good a man may be otherwise, if he looks this virtue I shall scratch him off my ticket Now, good by little "T Spoon" and excuse me from noticing you any more G W DIMICK

On the 8th of March the people of Arkansas will vote on the amendment to the State Constitution putting an end to all disabilities by reason of the late rebellion If carried, 20 000 people will be enfranchised

The legislators of Tennessee are accorded an annual reception at the residence of President Polk's widow One of the last requests of James K. was that these entertainments should continue while his widow lived

Northern Pacific Railroad land sales in December realized $8 254 January, $9 661 and February $10 820 Ordinarily the cash receipts are about 10 per cent of the actual sales, but during the past month they exceeded that rate slightly

"Local Option" has prevailed in nearly every county in Pennsylvania that has thus far voted on the question the only exceptions being in Schuylkill and Forest All the rest, numbering about a dozen, have decided that the sale of liquor in their limits must cease If this style of voting continues the traffic will soon be confined to three or four counties, in which there are large cities or a heavy mining population

There is some advantage in living on the border and a number of thirsty souls in Vigo county, Indiana and Clark county, Illinois propose to make the most of their fortunate location A building is to be erected on the State line, with a bar in either end, and the Sucker will moisten his clay in Indiana while the Hoosier performs a similar operation in Illinois! In this way will the pains and penalties of the Liquor law in the respective commonwealths be avoided

WALTHAM WATCHES

IN

Heavy Cases.

WE HAVE SENT GREAT NUMBERS OF THESE excellent Watches to our customers in the Pacific States, and all have given satisfaction We have for several years sold more American Watches than any other house in the country either wholesale or retail and the reason is that our prices are low and we only sell a good article Our plan is to send single Watch s by Express to any place no matter how remote with the bill to collect on delivery; to let the purchaser open the package and examine the Watch and be perfectly satisfied before paying the bill, and we offer for any Watch that does not prove satisfactory to

Refund the Money

If you will write for our Descriptive Price List, we will mail it to you with out expense and from it you will see that you can buy a genuine Waltham Watch of us at the lowest possible New York prices and without any risk whatever We send so many Watches to the Pacific States that we always have 4 6 0 and 8 oz cases on hand so as to fill orders promptly When you write mention that you saw this notice in the Portland (Or.) Oregonian and if you want reference we can name persons in every county on the coast that have had Watches from us Do not let distance or your out-of the way location deter you from writing for the Price List

CITY.

FACE CUT.—Mr H T Bingham, a young attorney of this city while scuffling with another young man in a saloon at East Portland yesterday fell through the window and cut the side of his head in a terrible manner It appears that Bingham and a companion named Forbes were engaged in playing a game of billiards at the time Both were more or less under the influence of liquor A dispute arose about some trivial matter and the two began to scuffle, half in earnest and half in sport Bingham lost his balance and fell against the window The pane was shivered and a fearful gash inflicted on the left side of the face, extending from the forward part of the ear to nearly the corner of the mouth The wound bled profusely, and about a quart of blood was lost before Bingham could be brought to this side He was taken to the Cosmopolitan Hotel, and Drs Cooper and Davenport were hastily summoned The gash was sewed up and the wound carefully dressed The injuries are severe but not regarded as dangerous Had the cut been a trifle deeper at the anterior portion of the ear an artery would have been severed and the consequences would have speedily proved fatal

SERIOUS WINE.—Several Chinamen called at a hardware store situated not many miles from Front street, yesterday, to make some purchases Having completed their bargains, they intimated to the gentlemanly salesman that he ought to treat The clerk put on his most seeming smile and beckoned them to follow him to the rear part of the room The Chinamen followed him to the desk On the counter was sitting a bottle of Kennedy's Great Discovery, from which the salesman poured out three wine glasses full handed them to the Johns and bid them "drink hearty" After draining the glass of its contents, one old Celestial smacked his lips and asked "What you call 'em?' to which the clerk replied, 'Him welly good wine, all same as Molican man drink'" John ogled the label on the bottle somewhat suspiciously, and remarked with a smile child like and bland "Me sabe wine, him heap strong," which saying, the spokesman deposited the money on the counter and glided out, followed by his companions

LAUNDRY THIEF.—A gentleman who resides in the western portion of the city, missed a sheet from the clothes line one night during the present week, which had been forgotten The loss of the article was noticed the following morning by the lady of the house, and very correctly attributed to some sneak thief. On inspecting the premises, numerous tracks were found. Later in the day, as a little son of the gentleman was playing about the yard, he discovered a three dollar gold piece which he took in triumph to his mother The money was found lying directly in one of the foot-prints, and evidently was dropped by the thief in his haste The conundrum is did the thief make or lose by the operation? The gentleman intimates that he has several other sheets which he will part with on similar terms

STILL GROUNDED.—The bark Ihone at last accounts was fast aground opposite Fort Stevens, where she was driven by fierce gales a few days ago The tugs Varuna and Varuna have both endeavored to pull the vessel off without success Yesterday, the mate of the Ihone came up on the Astoria boat for the purpose of engaging the steamer Emma Hayward to proceed to the assistance of the bark It is thought that at high tide the Hayward will be able to draw the vessel clear of the sand. If that cannot be done, the vessel will be lightered until she can be floated off At present, the river below Astoria is reported quiet, and while the water remains smooth the river steamers can venture to the succor of the Ihona without danger The steamer will probably go down this morning

THE JEWISH FESTIVITIES.—The Purim festival was very generally observed last evening among our Hebrew citizens, especially among the juvenile portion—with the latter the amusements took the form of a carnival. Masked parties visited their friends in all manner of romantic costumes, creating considerable merriment and no little wonder and conjecture as to the impersonators of the various characters A rather motley, though pleasing, group, had among other characters, Washington in Continental uniform with his lady, a German peasant girl, Satan, a baker in working dress, etc. The young folks enjoyed the fun hugely

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Richardson sells some very desirable parcels of real estate at the Court House door on Saturday next at 2 o'clock P. M, belonging to the estate of W E Cooper, deceased Among which are those two very valuable lots fronting the new Custom House building, those two handsome lots with three dwelling houses on them, on the northwest corner of Alder and Tenth streets, and some other desirable parcels in this city Also a nice block in East Portland (No 61), which will be sold in parcels of two lots each

GONE AT LAST.—After a long and vexatious delay of several weeks, the bark Sarah Scott was towed to sea on Wednesday last by the tug boat Astoria Much difficulty was experienced to obtain a crew, and after the required number was procured, the bar was so rough that no vessel could cross She has consequently been obliged to lie at anchor until a favorable opportunity presented The Garrison, which has also been ready to sail for some days, crossed the bar yesterday, destined for Europe with a cargo of wheat.

CATTLE POISONED.—A gentleman from Yamhill county informs us that there has been several cases of cattle poisoning in that vicinity within the last few weeks, by feeding on the wild parsnip This plant contains poisonous properties, notwithstanding which fact the cattle are very fond of it. It is generally among the earliest vegetation in the spring, and stock, in their eagerness for something green, devour the wild parsnip, and its effects are not unfrequently destructive of life.

The Walla Walla Statesman says The total population of Wallula, including three Chinamen, is 54. Hon H. M Hodgis is building a new ferry boat, intended to accommodate the travel to and from the Yakima country The piles of the new county bridge over the Walla Walla river, on the Wallula road, are said to stand on two bunches of willow roots Considering that beavers abound in that vicinity, this is rather a frail support.

THREE VESSELS OFF.—When the Dixie Thompson left Astoria yesterday morning three vessels were seen off the bar ready to cross The vessels are doubtless the bark Free Trade and schooners H. L. Tiernan and Parallel, all three of which are overdue at this port from San Francisco The two schooners mentioned, belong to the Star Line recently established by C D Morrison & Co between San Francisco and Portland

The London shareholders in the Emma mine of Utah Territory, not having received any dividend for February, inquired the reason Their frequent telegrams were replied to by a statement that the mine needed timbering, and that 'our punters were scarce.' The London Times thinks these excuses rather thin The Board of Directors have concluded to send a deputation to the mine, in order to find out the true state of the case

"ANCIENT OREGON."—This will constitute the subject of a lecture to be delivered at the new Masonic Hall this evening by the Rev. AN OLD LANDMARK.—Several workmen have commenced to tear down and remove the old dwelling house which stands at the corner of Fourth and Salmon streets This building is one of the old land marks of the city, having been erected as early as 1849 Since then the wooden tenement has been occupied almost continuously

FUNERAL DISCOURSE.—The funeral discourse of the late Orin Kellogg Sr will be preached at the First Congregational Church of this city by the Rev Geo H. Atkinson, on Sunday at 4 o'clock P M Friends and relatives of the deceased and members of the several Masonic lodges are cordially invited to attend

ROLLER SKATING.—On Saturday evening the Skating Rink will be re-opened for a short season of roller skating. Lovers of the art will be glad to hear of this, and we predict the large room will be filled on the opening night A masquerade carnival is in contemplation and sufficient notice will be given to those wishing to take part

TESTIMONY.—ARGUMENT.—After two days the evidence in the case of United States vs Walter S Ketchen, under indictment for robbing the mails was concluded yesterday afternoon In the progress of the trial over a dozen witnesses were examined The argument in the case has been set for this morning at 10 o'clock, after which the Court will deliver the charge and the cause will be submitted to the jury

GOING DOWN.—The schooner Oregonian was taken in tow by the Rescue yesterday afternoon, bound for Astoria It is probable the schooner will stop at some point down the river and take on board about 250,000 feet of lumber as her cargo is not quite completed The vessel is bound for San Francisco

WITH LUMBER.—The brig Orient was towed down the river on Wednesday evening by the tug Ben Holladay to St Helens She will load at that point with lumber for San Francisco

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

PERSONAL, LOCAL AND GENERAL.

[From the Advocate.]

A meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon of each week, in the lecture room of the Taylor street M E Church, at 2 o'clock for the promotion of holiness All interested are cordially invited to be present

On Wednesday evening next, March 19th, Rev Dr Lindsley, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city will deliver one of his popular lectures in the Taylor street M L Church The proceeds will be devoted to some public benefit

Rev W H Hallery, of the A M E Zion Church, has been appointed general missionary for California and Oregon. He will visit the churches and communities of California and elsewhere soliciting money in aid of the missionary fund of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church of California

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather on Tuesday afternoon last a large number assembled in the lecture room of the Taylor street Church to participate in the exercises of the meeting appointed for the promotion of holiness Doubtless all were edified by the extracts read and the remarks made by the pastor.

The protracted meeting held at Mount Tabor during the past two weeks or more by Rev J S McCain, assisted by Bro Wolfe and others, has been greatly blessed Up to date 11 conversions are reported, and 12 accessions to the church It is in contemplation to build a new church edifice at that place, and already a subscription paper has been started, with $700 to begin with

At the close of the sermon on last Sabbath morning Rev G W Izer, pastor of the Taylor street M E Church of this city, announced that a collection would be taken up in behalf of the superannuated preachers, and the widows and orphans of such as had died in the work In a very few minutes the collectors returned, and the amount reported was $100 even

CITY SEWERAGE.

Report to Committee on Streets and Public Property.

To the Committee on Streets and Public Property—Gentlemen In replying to your inquiries as to what portion of the work connected with a system of drainage for the city of Portland is most urgently needed I will first briefly review the different systems which have been adopted in other cities

The systems of drainage which have been generally adopted may be reduced to two First the Metropolitan or that of the city of London Second that in general use in the cities of the United States which for convenience I will call the Brooklyn system In the Metropolitan system the surface drainage and the house sewage are conducted through separate sets of sewers and pipes—the former to the natural water courses into which it is discharged and the latter to the reservoirs where it is collected and prepared for use as fertilizers In the Brooklyn system but one set of sewers is used which provides for the surface drainage as well as the house sewage The method almost universally adopted for laying either of these systems is in trenches, which are closed up after the completion of the sewers What has been called the French system of sewerage is not a separate and distinct system, but is simply a plan of laying the sewers in tunnels, which admits of access to them at all times These tunnels are also used as conduits for the gas and water pipes and telegraph lines of the city The cost of laying sewers on this plan is estimated to be about $198 000 per mile In view of the fact, which recent experience has demonstrated that sewers can be made self cleansing, this plan loses its chief recommendation The cost alone is sufficient to condemn it for any but large and populous cities, and it may therefore be passed over without further comment

The object of the two sets of sewers and pipes which the Metropolitan system involves is as above stated to utilize the sewage matter as a fertilizer—and in addition, to prevent the contamination of the waters of the streams, which are frequently the only sources of water supply for the city In localities, however, where the sewage has not a sufficient value to warrant its collection and manufacture into manure, or where the quantity of the sewage is comparatively small, and can be readily and rapidly removed from the neighborhood of the city by the streams which receive it, the Brooklyn system, requiring but one set of sewers is all that is necessary, and in view of its lower cost of construction, preferable. Such being the case in the city of Portland, I recommend the adoption of the Brooklyn system, as being the best adapted and least expensive

The city of Portland comprises three natural basins, each having its distinct outlet into the river The first embraces the slopes which shed into Caruthers Creek, the second, those shedding into Tanner Creek, and the third, comprising the principal part of the city, the present outlet of which is through the streets near the river bank

The drainage of each of these districts is independent of either of the others

For the drainage of the streets in the Caruthers and Tanner Creek basins I cannot at this time give more than a brief general plan, the instrumental examination of these localities necessary to determine the details not having been made The plan I propose is to lay a main sewer in the lowest part of the valley of each district, into which the drainage will be discharged through tributary sewers and pipes The drainage of the central district being of more immediate importance, it has been closely examined, with a view to prepare the detailed plans necessary for the early prosecution of this work

By the accompanying map of the city, on which are shown by contour lines the slopes and water sheds, it will be seen that the rain water from the slopes on the south and west has no outlet to the river except through the lower portions of the east and west streets, between Jefferson and A, which, although comprising an area of not more than twenty-five acres are thus required to carry off the rain fall of three hundred and fifty acres of hill side blocks, a duty to which their want of inclination and defective gutters and culverts renders them unequal. The consequence is that on occasions of even moderate rains the crossings of Front and other streets near the river become flooded with water, and obstructed by refuse matter

This might be prevented by laying gutters large enough to carry off the water as fast as received, but the passage of large bodies of water in open channels through the streets would be, for many reasons, objectionable Culverts of sufficient size, with inlets in each street, would be very expensive, and would be liable at any time to become obstructed It is better, therefore, that the hill water should be intercepted near the foot of the slopes, and conveyed through underground channels to the river, which is the natural destination of the drainage of the city

Mr W E Morris, in his preliminary report on this subject, recommended, to receive the rain water from the high land south of the city, a sewer in Harrison street, which should discharge into the river, or into the ravine near the corner of Front and Harrison I find however, that the soil and the low land between Water street and the river is marshy, with a substratum of quicksand, on which masonry could not be built without heavy expense The best location for this sewer would be Clay street, at the foot of which the soil is comparatively firm and where it would drain the whole of the south slope, between Caruthers and Clay

My observations during the present rainy season have convinced me that a sewer is also required to take the rain-water from the west slope between Clay and B streets

I propose, therefore, that two main sewers be built—one in Clay street, from Ninth to the river, the other through Sixth and B streets to the foot of the latter The grade of Sixth street, between Pine and H, should be raised to the level of the adjoining streets in order that it may be properly drained, as well as to allow the necessary inclination for the lower end of the sewer in B street These two sewers will take the hill water from that portion of the city which lies between Caruthers, Twelfth and Hoyt the one side, and Clay, Sixth and Stark on the other

To provide for the rain falling on the blocks between Sixth street and the river, pipe sewers should be laid in Stark, Morrison and Main streets In Second street they should have inlets to take the rain water from Sixth to Second and from the cross streets

It is of the first importance that the streets in this locality which are the principal thoroughfares of the city should be maintained in good condition and that the other portions of the city which have suffered from want of proper drainage should be relieved This will be accomplished by building the sewers which I have recommended It commenced at an early date they can be completed before the next winter

I present with this full descriptions of the details of the proposed works, the most important of which I will briefly recapitulate

The sewers should be circular, the abundant inclination of the streets generally making it unnecessary to use the sewer of oval form section in order to obtain greater velocity of flow They should be built of sound hard brick, laid in cement mortar, and the inverts should be coated with cement to secure a smooth surface

Inlets should be provided to admit the water from cross streets, with gratings to exclude floating matter which would obstruct the sewers if allowed to enter them, and man holes or lamp holes should be placed at each change of grade to allow inspection

Sockets, to admit house drain pipes should be built into the walls of the sewers and closed with caps until needed

The outlets of the sewers should be below the lowest water mark of the river to prevent the noxious gases from spreading through the city, which would occur if the contents of the sewers should be left on the beach exposed to the action of the sun and air

They will be protected from injury from passing vessels by the wharves, or where these do not exist, by piles driven for that purpose

Sewers and pipes will be laid at a sufficient depth below the street to allow cellars to be drained into them; such cellars, however, as are below the freshet mark, should be drained by small pipes running directly into the river Those pipes can be laid in the sewer trenches

Ventilation will be effected for the present through perforated caps, placed over the manholes and lamp-holes At a later period, when house connections are made, the roof spouts will assist greatly in ventilating the sewers

I now come to the consideration of the question of the proper dimensions for sewers

It was for a long time supposed that all main sewers should be large enough to allow a man to enter and clean them This supposition arose from defects in construction, such as a rough inner surface, which, by obstructing the flow of the more solid portion of the sewerage matter formed a deposit which sooner or later closed the channel, and had to be removed by hand As sewers came into more general use, records were kept of the details of their construction, their comparative efficiency, and all matters of interest in connection with this subject and these records, extending over a period of many years, have established that sewers which have the requisite inclination and a smooth inner surface, are self cleaning in proportion to the velocity with which the liquid flows through them And as this velocity is diminished in proportion as the channel is widened, it follows that if sewers are made larger than is necessary to perform their work, they are more liable to become obstructed

The principal work of the main sewers will be to carry off the rainfall, to which the quantity of house sewage bears so small a ratio as not to be worth considering In the Atlantic and some European cities it is usual to allow for a rainfall of one inch in an hour Such a rain, however, is very uncommon. A record of the rainfall in Brooklyn, taken at intervals of four hours, and extending over a period of seven years, shows that in this time only three days occurred in which the rainfall in four hours amounted to one inch and but three days in which it amounted to two inches in twenty-four hours

The heaviest rain noted in San Francisco was four and one fourth inches in twenty-four hours I am informed that at Astoria seven inches of water fell in twenty four hours So far as I can learn, this has not been exceeded on the Northern Pacific coast The greatest fall noted in this city, since a record has been kept, amounted to 2 9 10 inches in twenty four hours and the unusual rains of the present week have not exceeded one sixth of an inch per hour The rains here, although frequent for several months of the year, are not heavy and the topographical features of this section of the country indicate a probability that violent rain storms will rarely occur

In view of these facts, the question naturally arises, whether in fixing the size of the sewers for this city, a standard based on the ascertained rainfall of the locality should not be adopted, and as the principal object to be gained by building smaller sewers is to reduce the expense of construction, I present an estimate of the cost of the proposed work, if proportioned to a rainfall of one inch in an hour, and of its cost if only two-thirds of an inch be allowed for

By this estimate you will see that if one inch rainfall be allowed for the cost will be $47,455 65, allowing for two thirds of an inch, the cost would be $36,762 60, showing a saving in first outlay in favor of the smaller sewers of $10 693 05 And if the lesser standard of rainfall be now adopted to regulate the size of the sewers for this city, a like saving will be effected in all future drainage work

In view of these considerations, I recommend the adoption of a system based on a rainfall of two thirds of an inch in one hour. This will provide amply for even extraordinary rains, and leave a margin of security for excessive storms, which are liable to occur but seldom, and which do not often last more than a few minutes Should such excessive storms occur, the worst that could happen would be that for a period of say a quarter of an hour, the sewers could not carry off all of the rain water

I have now furnished the information which you require, and await your decision as to whether large or small sewers shall be adopted before preparing detailed drawings for the execution of the work

On the map above referred to, I have shown the positions of the proposed sewers and pipes, and indicated the sections which will be drained by them, and also an arrangement for street gutters, which, by effecting an equal distribution of the rain water, will prevent overflow and washes in the street

It must be borne in mind that the success of any plan of drainage depends in a great measure on the attention given to the condition of the streets. Refuse matter from houses and stables should be removed daily, and not allowed to remain in the streets, to obstruct the gutters, or find its way into the pipes and sewers Suitable gutters and crossings, similar to those now in use on Fourth street, are requisite to convey the rain water into the sewers The gullies which have been formed in many of the streets of the city are mainly caused by a want of the proper surface drainage, which the street gutters are intended to perform

Portland possesses in an uncommon degree the conditions essential to an efficient system of drainage The ample inclination of the streets generally not only reduces to a minimum the size, and consequently the cost of the sewers, but will add to their efficiency Even in the streets near the river sufficient grades for the sewers can be obtained to insure a rapid flow of the sewage, and flushing with water from the street hydrants need only be resorted to occasionally during long-continued freshets

To the elaborate and careful report on the subject of the drainage of this city, made by Mr W. E Morris, I am indebted for many valuable suggestions Respectfully,

The Shield of Health

Debility opens the door to disease Nor is this all When the door has been opened and the terrible intruder has entered, physical prostration renders its progress to the citadel of life comparatively easy Therefore bar the door, and if possible keep it barred or if the enemy has already secured a foothold rally the strength of the system and assist nature to drive out the foe of health and life The means of doing this is within every one's reach Brace up the physique with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters when there are elements in the air you breathe or the water you drink that are morbid and unwholesome This is barring the door Epidemic and endemic will assail in vain the living fortress that is thus protected It may laugh at siege to scorn But if the precautionary measure has been neglected the seeds of disease can be rejected by the same potent vegetable agent that would, if taken earlier have prevented their taking an entrance into the system The stimulating, invigorating, regulating and purifying properties of this vital elixir render it a most formidable antagonist of all debilitating disorders The rapidity and certainty with which it vanquishes fever and ague rheumatism, bilious colic indigestion and nervous complaints is due in no small degree to the strength it imparts to the muscular fibre the nerves and the membranes which line the stomach and the bowels It may be safely said that a course of the Bitters commenced now will be a sure protection against most of the complaints incident to the season

Going Away.

Do not be angry with me
For an idle word I say;
Do not be angry, father,
Because I am going away.
Have patience with me, my mother,
Though I may have gone with you,
But I love you, I love you, mother,
Whatever I say or do.
Look kindly upon me, sister,
You're beautiful and gay,
Your days will be long and happy,
But I am going away
With me, if you could but read it,
Clear written on cheek and brow,
There is no jest, no fooling—
Only a brief calm Now
A little space to be glad in—
A few spaces to grieve,
And life's whole scene fades from me,
As the landscape fades to eve,
Except—but ever I shall have it,
My day is ended at noon,
And the saddest bit of the story
Is—it does not end too soon.
I am so weary—weary
I could turn my face to the wall;
Like a sick child, long before bed time,
Drop asleep among you all;
So glad that lessons are over;
Still gladder that play is done;
And a dusky curtain catches
Between me and the sun

Good-bye, my father and mother!
Two of you—and but one of me!
And, sister, you'll find some stranger
Much closer than I could be.
Once more—but death's quiet reaching
Is making me slowly older
My heart, I to your life's keeping—
Then, God, Thou will not despise;
My soul, too weak for earth's battle,
Thou will gird up anew;
And the angels shall see me doing
The work I was meant to do.
The work that I fever failed in,
And wept o'er and tried again,
Till brain and body and spirit
Snapped under the cruel strain.

That is over. No, none need be sorry;
You rather ought to rejoice,
And sing my merits in pæans
Without a break in your voice;
And let me depart contented,
Before the heat of the days;
For I shall be still God's servant,
Although I have gone away.

The Consciousness of Dogs.

A dog feels angry precisely as we do, and, after provocation, is sometimes vindictive, and sometimes implacable, according to his individual character. He is susceptible of hatred of the bitterest kind. He is so excruciatingly jealous that his life becomes a burden in the presence of a favored rival. His envy continually leads him to eat what he does not want, least another animal should take it, and to illustrate the dog in the manger. Gluttony holds out to him temptations under which even his honesty sometimes succumbs; but, on the other hand, from drunkenness he is nobly emancipated. A dog mentioned by the Rev. Thomas Jackson ("Our Dumb Companion,") having been once made so drunk with malt liquor that he was unable to walk up stairs, over after declined to taste the pernicious beverage, and growled and snarled at the sight of a pewter mug. Again, as to love, Don Juan was a cold and uncomprising character compared to a dog; and as to maternal affection the mother dog feels it with heroic passion, starving herself to death rather than forsake her offspring. Gratitude may be almost said to be a dog's leading principle, supplying first the spring of allegiance to his master; and ever after reconciling him, with true magnanimity, to take evil from the hand from which he has accepted good. Regret and grief he feels so deeply that they often break his heart. Fear is a passion which dogs exhibit with singular variation, some breeds and individuals being very timorous, and others perfect models of courage, the latter characteristics and fortitude seeming to be more characteristically canine. A greyhound has been known, after breaking his thigh, to run on till the course was concluded. As to hope, no one can observe the dog watching for his master's step, as in Landseer's picture of "Expectation," without admitting that he knows the sentiment as well as we. Pride in a successful chase may be witnessed in every dog, and felt in the quickened heartbeats of a greyhound when caressed and praised. That dogs have personal vanity appears from the fact that they are so manifestly dejected and demoralized when dirty and ragged by long exposure, and recover their self-respect immediately on being washed and combed. Chivalry and magnanimity may nearly always be calculated upon in dogs, and wife-beating is an offence to which the four-footed beasts never descend. The stories are endless of big dogs generously overlooking the insults of small curs, or taking them into the water and giving them a good ducking as a punishment for their impertinence, and then helping them mercifully back to land. Sense of propriety, bifurcating into covetousness and avarice, is common among all dogs. The kennel, rug, collar, water basin, or bone once devoted to use, no dog can see transferred to another without indignation. Frequently he "covets his neighbor's house," and attempts to ensconce himself in it surreptitiously; and almost universally he covets his neighbor's bone, and purloins it if he dare. Even from avarice he cannot be wholly exonerated, observing his propensity to bury his treasures. Shame, after transgressing any of the arbitrary rules imposed on him, a dog displays with ludicrous simplicity; but of the deeper sense of violated modesty which in human beings accompanies the commission of sin, the dog evidently knows nothing whatever. Humor, so far as it can proceed without language, the dog catches readily from a humorous master, and also the enjoyment of such games as he can understand. As a baby crows with glee at "bo-peep," so a bog barks with delight at "go-fetch," Make-believe runs, and false starts, romps and tacklings, throwing a ball for him to catch on the grass, or a stick to fish out of a lake, all supply him with pleasure perfectly analagous in their nature to that which boys and men find in blindman's buff and prisoner's base, lordly cricket, and lady-like croquet. Lastly, faith in a beloved superior is perhaps the most beautiful and affecting of all the attributes of a dog.—Quarterly Review.

A CURIOUS AUCTION.—An auction of a very unusual character recently took place in London, the articles offered for sale being the magical apparatus, wardrobes, curiosities, and properties of Prof. Anderson, "the Wizard of the North." In the course of the auction, as the various conjuring tricks and apparatus were offered for sale, the Professor explained the method of working the illusions, and exposed the whole system by which magicians deceive their audiences. A dishcover, for the production of rabbits in any quantity, was sold for 8s; a magic blunderbuss, with its wonderful balls, realized 16s 6d. a large oak plate chest, that had traveled twice round the world with the "Professor," was sold for 13s 6d; a leather trunk, described as about 360 years old, and said to have been the very one in which Mary Queen of Scots was said to have packed her clothing when she left France for her native country, was knocked down to Mr. Samuel Hague for 3ls; a number of trays, said to have been from the Tycoon of Japan, went for 6s a pair; and a large shield, described as a present from the Emperor of Russia, was sold for £5 10s. The magic "rapping table," used by the Professor for the exposure of the tricks of the spiritualists, was sold for 35s, while the three-legged table by which the sphinx illusion shows a speaking head without a body, was knocked down for £4 14s. The use of the mirrors by which this illusion, first introduced by Col. Stodare, is effected, was shown to the audience in attendance; but the Professor withheld the secret attached to the working of a large magic clock suspended over the center of the stage, which was sold for £15.

PIANO TORTURERS.—One of the great piano makers has manufactured more than forty thousand pianos. When one reflects upon the amount of agony endured by uninspired damsels in trying to learn to play these pianos, the sleepless morning hours in which insomnia has been induced in a whole household by the frantic "practice" of innocent little girls—the amount of property squandered in rewards and premiums offered in journeys, trips abroad, and new hats, to induce unwilling fingers to daily with their keys, added to the original cost of the instruments of torture, and the round shoulders and aching backs attributable to them—who would be a piano maker and be responsible for all this misery?

A lucky Iowa editor won a very nice bet on the Presidential election. A young lady presumed to be pretty, agreed to kiss him once a month for four years if Grant was elected, and is keeping her word like a man. We hope, for the sake of the editor's peace of mind that he is not a married man.

$128,000 found in Church.

STARTLING DISCOVERY MADE IN A READING CHURCH—THE LANCASTER BANK ROBBERS HIDE THEIR BOOTY AT THAT PLACE.

Readers have not forgotten the Lancaster bank robbery, and the subsequent flight of the crackamen to Reading, by being drawn in a sleigh hired at a Lancaster livery. The thieves arrived in this city at 6 o'clock in the evening, slighting at the postoffice, and since then nothing has been heard of the robbers, notwithstanding the most diligent search that has been made.

A discovery, however, was made yesterday morning by the sexton of the New St. Paul's Memorial Church, North Sixth street, Mr. Gideon Knabb, residing at No. 231 Reed street, through which bonds, mortgages, notes, and other instruments bearing face value to the amount of $100,000 were recovered. The particulars of this mysterious affair, as given by Mr Knabb, are as follows: Mr. Knabb went to the church yesterday morning as usual, for the purpose of attending to his customary duties. Descending to the basement to attend to the fire, his attention was attracted to a bundle of some kind in the stairway stuffed into a hole at the side of the stairway. He subsequently took out the package, opened and examined it, and to his utter surprise and astonishment found that the parcel contained some seventy instruments of writing, proving to be blot of bonds, notes, mortgages, and certificates, bearing face value of $127,900, evidently held in deposit at one time by Messrs Stahman, Clarkson & Co., bankers, of Lancaster. The discovery was immediately made known, and several prominent gentlemen informed of the full particulars. The Rev. Mr. Bansman left Reading this morning for Lancaster to inform the parties in reference to to the matter.

The papers were wrapped up in a copy of the Congressional Globe, dated February 8, 1871, and are of such matter as is only valuable to parties to whom they belong. The robbers were evidently crackamen of experience, having been engaged in such business before. The large sealed envelopes containing available and convertible funds were scientifically dipped and opened by the thieves, while the private securities remained untouched. Among the papers are 44 bonds, the highest of which is for $10,000. There are seven large mortgages, ranging from $1,000 to $6,000, together with many other certificates of loan, insurance policies, judgments, and other instruments.

Mrs. Knabb, wife of the Sexton, gave this morning a statement to the effect that on the evening the thieves arrived from Lancaster there was chapel service held at the church. She noticed a mysterious looking personage leaving the church during service. He was a large, heavy built man, having a heavy cloak thrown over his shoulders. His suspicious movements attracted her attention, but it being in church, she soon forgot it. There is little doubt but that the individual seen by Mrs. Knabb was one of the gang of interested robbers. Their motive for placing the bonds in church is a matter of much conversation and surmise, and the only construction to be put upon the affair is that the thieves were anxious to shroud the whole affair in as mysterious a manner as possible.—Reading Eagle.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

THURSDAY EVENING, March 13, 1873

Gold in New York to-day, 110¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 87½ buying; 88½ selling

Gold bars are quotable at 860 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—11s 9d@12s; club 12s 4d@12s 9d.

The week, which began stormy and disagreeable, closes with sunny skies and spring-like zephyrs. Notes of preparation for the business of the new season are heard, and renewed vivacity and vigor will soon begin to inspire the trade of our fair young State. Such are some of the fine-spun theories that are heard from the over-sanguine in our midst, but still the fact remains that our financial affairs are in a depressed condition and the wheels of commerce roll sluggishly because of a lack of a full supply of available funds to carry on the legitimate business of the country. While it cannot be said that the same stringency prevails under which business had labored up to the beginning of the year, we find that to-day, with many business men, the complaint of a scarcity of coin is still heard. But while this is true of some, there are others who have done a close trade during the winter, keeping their collections well up and maintaining a strict regard to the rules which insure safety in commercial matters, now feel that being able to start even after the ordeal of "hard times" through which the country has passed, they can reasonably look forward to a season of average prosperity.

Our banks are increasing their business somewhat, and in them, as well as on the street, accommodations are effected with greater ease than they could have been a few weeks ago, but rates are still very firmly maintained. In short, money is easier, but not yet what might be called plenty.

The Wool Trade for 1873.

On this subject we append to remarks before made, the following from a recent number of the Boston Advertiser, which demonstrates rather than disproves the general proposition, that the probable demand will be in excess of the supply. We submit that the Advertiser gives no valid reason why prices should be low, unless it is the over production of poor fabrics last year which, having been made at a time when the raw material was certainly commanding a very remunerative figure, cannot compete with better goods manufactured at the same figures. But here are the Advertiser's figures and comments:

The total receipts of Wool at this port during the past week comprise 3,805 bales of domestic and 411 bales foreign, against 2,939 bales domestic and no foreign for the same week last year. The total receipts since Jan. 1st have been 32,435 bales of domestic and 2,551 bales of foreign, against 24,904 bales of domestic and 2,500 bales of foreign for the corresponding period of last year. Foreign exports for the week have been 27 bales Port Phillip Wool to Liverpool, England. The sales for the week have been 726,000 lbs of domestic and 770,000 lbs of foreign, making a total of 1,475,003 lbs.

The demand for domestic fleece has been slack, and the sales have generally been at a decline of a cent a pound. Pulled Wools are also flat, and the sales have been at lower rates. Good lots of California have been in fair request, and on all choice Wools prices have been maintained. The course of the Wool market seems to surprise the best informed members of the trade, and notwithstanding the supply is light, the market is depressed and prices steadily weakening. A great part of this depression is due, undoubtedly, to the over production of goods in all manufacturing countries, and the fact that a large portion of the mills have made no money for some time past. There will always be manufacturers whose skill and taste will enable them to produce cloths that find a ready sale in the dullest times at a good profit; but the great bulk of the production has been of inferior quality, and the markets are now over overstocked with this class of goods that can only be sold at a loss. The February London sales opened flat, and at a decline from the November sales of a penny half-penny; average Australian fleece sold at fourteen pence half-penny, but superior was scarce at about sixteen pence. These prices are less than was anticipated, and will not be without an effect upon our own market.

Eastern Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

The following telegram concerning the flour, wheat and wool markets in the East was received with our regular press dispatches to-day:

NEW YORK, March 12.—A cargo of flour which left San Francisco by steamer on the 27th ult. has been sold to arrive, at $10@10 25 ₱ bbl, mostly at $10 12½. The market is quiet but very firm. It is estimated by the best authorities that about one-third of last season's wheat crop in the West remains in the hands of farmers and forwarders. No California wheat is on sale here Prime would probably bring $2@2 05.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—Two hundred and ten thousand pounds of wool rolls and yarn sold at auction at 12½@36c for the wool, and 33@40c for yarn ₱ lb.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—Until additional tonnage shall arrive, or at least until arrangements shall be known to have been effected from which such arrivals may be expected, we can not look for any great excitement in the market. At present there is but little offering, and transactions are limited to a few lots. The holders seem to be inclined to keep back until there shall be more life in the market, and exporters appear equally indifferent about making orders at current rates. We quote $1 60 per cental as offering for good lots.

FLOUR—Our market exhibits no material change, stocks on hand being no more than sufficient to supply the demand, which is rather more active. Prices in San Francisco seem to rule quite steady. Mail advices from New York indicate a scarcity of Pacific coast flour in that market. Imperial Mills, one of our choice Oregon brands, was the only offering. This was quoted in the Tribune of the 25th ult. at $10 50 per bbl. Our local market is quiet, and quotable firm at the figures last given.

OATS—During the past week the demand has ruled rather better than last, and with diminished receipts prices have been well kept up. We quote ordinary lots of white at 60 cents to 62½ ₱ bushel for best, sacks included. The outgoing steamer carried about 1,000 sacks, and the schooner Oregonian a small lot, for San Francisco.

BARLEY—The market is without any special animation, prices ruling steady at $1 40@1 50 ₱ cental, according to variety, sack included.

HAY—The demand is fair for the season, and good timothy changes hands freely at $16@18 50 ₱ ton. The demand for wild lowland is duller at $8@10 ₱ ton. There are small lots of wild upland in the market, which are quotable at $13@16 ₱ ton.

GRAHAM FLOUR—We note no special change in quotations from those last given. The market is well supplied at $2 75 ₱ 100 lbs.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Prices are firm, though but a limited trade is enjoyed. Fresh brands are quotable at 5½c ₱ lb in 50 lb, and 6¼c in 10 lb sacks.

OATMEAL—Our State mills supply the market with a No 1 article at $5 50 ₱ bbl of 200 pounds. The demand is moderately active.

CORNMEAL—The supply is somewhat shorter, but prices, with no new features, are unchanged. Quotations are furnished at $4 25@4 50 ₱ bale of 100 lbs.

HOMINY—The market is supplied at current rates, which are $5@5 25 ₱ 100 lbs.

POTATOES—The quotations furnished, from necessity, have a wide range. A fair supply is on hand and receipts continue adequate to all the demand at present. Prices for common varieties rule at about 40 cents ₱ bushel, with an advance for best.

ONIONS—The market is rather better than last week and prices improved. We quote 2½c ₱ lb, with 3c for choice lots. The receipts of the week have been small.

APPLES—The demand is very good for choice lots for shipping, while receipts have fallen off. From our best information the quantity held by orchardists is small. Quotations for best varieties are firm at 1½ ₱ box, while common lots from wagons range at 50@75c ₱ box. The latter does not include boxes.

BUTTER—There is a scarcity of choice fresh dairy of home make, which is partially supplied by importations from California. We quote common country with a wide range, from 10c to changing grades of the best dairy at 18 @20c ₱ lb. California sells at 16c. Oregon dairy, Oregon make, rules steady at last quotations.

CHEESE—The supply of Eastern made is good, and it is extensively used. Some Oregon dairies supply an excellent article, which is jobbing at 13@15c ₱ lb.

EGGS—Receipts of the past few days have been very fair. We quote jobbers' buying rates at 22½c per doz, with an unusual demand, and some tendency to prices to weaken.

BACON—The shipments are small, and the supply on hand far exceeds the requirements of the local demand. Prices are dull at 11@12c ₱ lb for side, 9@10c for shoulder, and 14@15c for hams, except for established brands of city cured, which command an advance of 1½@2c ₱ lb on the above rates.

LARD—Good lots in tins are quotable at 11½@13½c ₱ lb, and 10@11c in kegs. The market is well supplied.

HIDES—The Eastern markets are quite active, and tanners' requirements for the season will be large. The trade in our market is brisk, and we quote prices firm at 8@9c ₱ lb for green, 7@8c for salted, 15@16c for dry. Ready sale is found for all offering.

WOOL—There is nothing at present worthy of note in our market. Prices furnished are nignly at 25@30c ₱ lb.

POULTRY—The market is not well supplied and the demand is fairly active. Receipts of the week so far have been small and prices rule at $4@4 50 per dozen for common lots of chickens, while choice would doubtless command an advance.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax will sail from San Francisco for this port on Saturday of this week. She will probably depart hence on her return on the 21st.

Three sail vessels from San Francisco, noticed elsewhere, are probably now in the river.

Up to this time—Thursday night—we have no further intelligence of the Geo S. Wright.

Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—Flour—Quiet at $5 62½@6 75, best extra lots

Wheat—Inactive, holders evince no disposition to concede nominal range $1 75@180; choice round lots held at $1 91.

Barley—Quotable at $1 25 to 140.

Oats—$2@2 20

Hay—Steady at $15@23; moderate sales.

Potatoes—$1@1 20

Corn—300 sacks large yellow $1 25

Onions—150 sacks yellow, $4 50 to $5 75.
